With extensive and recognised expertise in a number of areas, Jessica Simor QC is considered one of the country's leading EU, regulatory and public law barristers, with particular expertise in environmental, tax and human rights law. Jessica acts for a wide range of clients, from private individuals, NGOs, multinational corporations and commercial regulatory bodies, to UK government departments and Governments.

EXPERIENCE

Qualified in 1992, Jessica was a founding member of Matrix in 2000, taking silk in 2013. She appears regularly in the higher courts, including over fifteen cases in the Supreme Court, appearances before Court of Justice of the European Union in Luxembourg and the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg. In 2016 she was nominated by the UK Government as one of three candidates to be the British judge at the European Court of Human Rights, to be decided by the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe.

In 1993, she worked in the European Commission in Brussels in the Directorate for the Environment, from 1995-1996 in the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg and during 1997 in Sarajevo, Bosnia, as legal adviser to the Human Rights Ombudsman. She was the author and is now General Editor of Sweet and Maxwell's leading loose-leaf: Human Rights Practice.

From 2010, she served as a member of the Attorney General's A Panel of Counsel, having previously served on both the B and C panels. She continues to act for the UK Government, in particular HMRC.

Jessica is a Bencher of Middle Temple and fellow of the Bingham Centre for the Rule of Law at the British Institute of International and Comparative Law.

She speaks and lectures regularly, most recently in March 2019 at the Young Legal Aid Lawyers conference in London and at Harvard Law School with the former Prime Minister of France Bernard Cazeneuve and the Deputy Director of the American Chamber of Commerce on Brexit, in November 2018 at YTL Centre for Politics, Philosophy and Law, King's College, with Professor Nussbaum's on her new book: the Monarchy of Fear and, in February 2018, at a symposium: 'Human rights and political wrongs' with Sir Noel Malcolm, examining his recent publication for Policy Exchange. In March 2017 she spoke at Yale Law School on international jurisdiction and the internet.

EXPERTISE

Covering a number of aspects of EU law over various sectors, her clients range from NGOs such as WWF, Client Earth, Open Society, Amnesty, HRW, Privacy International to international corporations and companies (Google, GE, Welsh Water, Vodafone and GNER), regulatory bodies (ORR, Ofgem, CMA) and government departments to and for private individuals.

Jessica’s regulatory work covers environment, energy, water, finance, transport, including labelling, integrated pollution control, track access, transport pricing, water and sewerage access rights, off-shore wind licensing, fisheries and data protection. She has advised in the complex litigation involving the position of various clients in relation to their lost deposits in Cypriot bank accounts, as a consequence of measures adopted by the EU institutions and the Cypriot government in 2013 in response to the Cypriot banking crisis.

At the request of the Jersey Government she carried out an inquiry into Ministerial conduct in relation to the management of the Jersey Innovation Fund, which was published in April 2017:

<https://www.gov.je/Government/Pages/StatesReports.aspx?ReportID=2876>

She led on a Report by international experts: Jean Paul Costa (French former Judge at ECHR and Françoise Tulkens, Belgian former judge at ECHR) into the legal issues surrounding the referendum in Catalonia:

Jessica is currently representing the former Speaker of the Catalan Parliament, Carme Forcadell, who is being detained and tried in Spain in relation to the recent independence referendum, in her case before the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg.

During 2016-2017 she produced a report for the Circle, a charity set up by Annie Lennox to further women’s rights in the developing world, into the living wage in the fast fashion sector: <https://thecircle.ngo/project/a-living-wage/>. She continues to work on this project to build an international network pressing for legal change.

She is advising the Open Society Foundation, Helsinki Foundation and Amnesty International on whether the Hungarian NGO Funding Law and recently the new taxation laws are in breach of EU Fundamental Freedoms and Charter Rights.

In light of her time in Strasbourg and Bosnia working on human rights issues, she is particularly known for her expertise in in relation to human rights and international jurisdiction questions, including in inter-state cases. She was counsel in R (Smith) v MoD, the case that established UK jurisdiction over its soldiers serving overseas.

A selection of Jessica’s cases are detailed below. A full case list is available on our website at matrixlaw.co.uk.

NOTABLE RECENT CASES

R (Wilson and others) v Prime Minister [2019] EWCA Civ 304: challenge to the legality of the Prime Minister’s refusal to have any regard at all to the serious offences found by the Electoral Commission in respect of Vote Leave and Leave.EU, the EC’s decision to refer further matters to the Metropolitan Police and NCA, as well as offences found by the ICO in proceeding with the Article 50 withdrawal process.
